 d. Aug. 5, 1965, Ulvah, Letcher Co., Ky.
 Married: James H. Brown, b. Oct. 5, 1864 d. Aug. 1, 1959
 Date married: Mar. 11, 1897
 James H. is the son of William "Billy" and Louthia (Day) Brown.
 James H. was a carpenter.
 Both are buried in the Dixon Cemetery, top of the mountain between Elk Creek and Bull Creek.

J.H. Brown who gave much of this information was a carpenter by trade having learned under Godfrey Johnson of Virginia at Harlan, Kentucky, building for Judge Hall. He received $18.00 per month out of which he paid his own room and board. Later averaged about $150.00 per house. Some of the houses he built were those of: Samp and Jim Pete Combs on Carrs Fork, John Henry Hall, John Godsey (Happy. Ky), "Little" Jim Stacy, Riley Combs, Hiriam Brashear, Bill Lusk (Linefork 1895), Cooley Campbell, Gran Halcomb, Andy Shepherd, Joe Wilson, Hen Singleton, Marion Cornett store, Alamander Whitaker, Ira Fields 1901, Tom Hall 1901, Bill Hall, George Hall, Will Hall, Clark Day, Judge Hall and others. He also helped build the depots at Blackey and Whitesburg, Ky.

He remembered John Fox, Jr. who was the author of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and the "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

He saw Mrs. John J. Lewis (Clarinda) baptized in the branch back of the old Oven Fork Church about 1871. The church wouldn't baptize in muddy water. Only saw three or four baptizings in about twenty years.

The old Oven Fork Church building was of log construction and about twenty feet square. Split log seats without backs. Usually had a song between preachers, perhaps so the people could stand and rest. Usually had three or four preachers. He remembered Morgan Lipps preaching on the great speckled bird at Oven Fork Association meeting about 1878. Also remembered Wiley Morris preaching there and on one occasion glanced through a window, which was just a square hole in the wall behind the pulpit, and called out , Enoch Blair your mare is loose.

Jim H. Brown remembered that at Christmas time the Cumberland Valley folks would fire war muskets for fire crackers. Packed the muskets full of Hornet's nest. They hung stockings back then but usually little in them. At Halloween they sometimes had parties or log rollings.

He said weddings usually occurred at the bride's home and that the next day infare dinner was usually held at the bridegrooms home. Marriages usually occurred after three or four months courtship. Dating was done about once a week.

In winter snow would often drift over rail fences on Cumberland. He remembered an old herb doctor at the head of Cowan by the name of Mathy Fields.

Such were some of the memories of a boy who grew up on the Cumberland river just after the Civil War. That boy was 92 years old when he told all this, as he sat by a little chunk fire in his home near Orchard Branch below Blackey, Ky. on a clear crisp day in October of 1956.
