WILLIAM J. "STILLER BILL" AND NANCY (DIXON) CAUDILL

Billie Caudill married Nancy Dixon who was born in the year 1830.

They were both born in what is now Letcher County and each died and was buried in the county, buried in the Stiller Bill Caudill Cemetery on Lower Caudill Branch, Letcher County, Kentucky, Uncle Billie as he was known, died Nov. 29, 1908, and Aunt Nancy passed away nine years before her husband. Only sixteen children were born into the family, ten boys and six girls, all except an infant, lived to marry and rear families. Uncle Billie was a farmer and great hunter until the war between the states broke out in 1861, when he enlisted in the Southern army and served on many of the hottest battlefields till its close. When he returned to his home, like hundreds of others who bared their breasts to the shot and shell of war, he found his large family almost in desperation for the necessities of live and living, his, as well as other farms about were grown up in briar and bushes and many of the homes of his old neighbors and friends deserted. He sought about for something to do to heal the critical situation. He engaged in the manufacture of corn whiskey and apple and peach brandy. He soon became proficient in the business and for years was regarded as the finest maker of these old time products in the mountains. In the year 1888 when attempts were made to out-law the manufacture and sale of intoxicants he was arreasted by John P. Back and other officers at the time and started to prison. Before going far he gave them his word he would entirely quit the business if released. This they did and until his last day never again engaged in it. He returned to his home and farm and resumed work. Following the distilling business so long, he was known far and wide as "Stiller Bill".

He was one of the greatest bee raisers, having hundreds of stands, and year in and year out had honey on his table for his family and all who gladly shared his great generosity.
